

BISNET INTERNATIONAL CASE COMPETITION

ABOUT BISNET

BisNet, the Business International Studies Network, is an esteemed consortium of prominent business schools throughout the United States. These institutions are recognized for their robust study abroad and international exchange programs, predominantly geared towards undergraduate education. BisNet brings together these reputable organizations, aiming to promote excellence in business education by encouraging collaboration and fostering the exchange of knowledge within the field of international business studies.

ORIGINS OF THE CASE COMPETITION

The BisNet Case Competition originated in 2020 during the COVID-19 crisis, a time when international travel was temporarily halted. In response to this challenge, Southbridge Access, a trusted provider of high-level international content for academic programs, swiftly adapted by partnering with local faculty from leading business schools. This collaboration led to the creation of case studies, primarily focusing on Latin American businesses. These cases, carefully selected by Southbridge Access faculty partners from Harvard Business Publishing's network of case-writing institutions, cater to the specific needs of each curriculum. This initiative was a response to the shift from traditional faculty-led international immersion programs to online academic experiences, ensuring students continued to receive valuable international academic content.
